UPDATE: Chelsea DDA Mural Painting Schedule

CHELSEA, MI — September 28, 2026 — The painting schedule for the new Chelsea DDA mural at the Palmer Park Pavilion has been updated.

Chicago-based artist Rawooh, represented by Artist Replete Gallery, will now be working on the mural Saturday, October 3, and Sunday, October 4.

This is a change from the previously announced schedule, which indicated work would begin Friday evening, October 2. There will be no public mural activity on Friday, October 2.

Those visiting downtown and the Chelsea Farmers Market on Saturday may see Rawooh at work as the mural takes shape and have an opportunity to meet the artist during the painting process.

The DDA looks forward to seeing this new piece of public art come to life at Palmer Park Pavilion and become part of Chelsea's growing collection of public art.

About the Chelsea Downtown Development Authority

The DDA exists to preserve downtown Chelsea's unique character, while helping it thrive by supporting local businesses, guiding thoughtful investment, improving public spaces, and strengthening a year-round downtown that serves residents, welcomes visitors, and creates lasting community value.
